

A Conference on
Health and Social Care: Reality not Rhetoric

Saturday 5th November 2016

10.30 am -5 pm, with registration beginning at 10 am

St Mary & St Petroc's Parish Centre, St Mary's Rd., Bodmin PL31 1NF

Registration, £5 (free to those on low incomes)

Please bring food for a shared lunch

Speakers Include:

Tudor Evans (OBE; Leader of the Opposition, Plymouth City Council)

Jackie Pendleton (Kernow Clinical Commissioning Group)

Nigel Morson (Keep Our NHS Public, Cornwall)

Workshops will focus on topics such as disability rights, mental health, carers, campaigning, social care, research, and other topics.

If you use health and social care services, if you are a carer, if you work in health or social care, or if you want to be sure these services will still be there when you or your family need them, this conference is for you.

Concern about health and social care crosses political boundaries and this is a non-party political event. It will bring together workers, organisations, campaigners, and individuals from across Devon and Cornwall to find out more about the current changes to health and social care, to learn from one another, and to devise new ways of working together.

Above all, we will address the question, In this new reality, how can we best defend and promote health and social services?

Register online at: <http://bit.ly/2d7hcjX>. Or register at the door.

For further information, contact ellenhawley@yahoo.com or judithann@live.co.uk